

This project is used to predict the disease based on the symptoms provided by the user and predict using three different machine learning algorithms, and it uses tkinter for the graphical user interface. Where the prediction of the disease by algorithms is easy and very cheap and accurate, it obtained an accuracy of 92-95%.